TEAM WANTS CONTESTS IN IOWA

The College Debating club is getting into actual work at once. The organization has been perfected and a working plan formulated. The Bellevue club has thought it would be advisable to arrange a debate with the Creighton club because, as both schools are in Omaha, the full student body ould attend the contest, and also any contest between the two always creates a great deal of interest and enthusiasm. The Creighton club, however, replied that their program for the year prevented such a meeting. The club has taken the matter up with some Iowa college and a debate will be arranged with one of them.

The Bellevue-Doane-Cotner league will meet again next spring for annual tricollege debate. The question as chosen is, 'Resolved, That there should be a national income tax." The Sophmore Debating club has organized and elected the following officers: Ppresident, Donald Enfield; vice president, August Barry. A freshman club is now being organized to enter the field next week. It is hoped the rivalry between the various clubs will aid in developing some winning debaters. The freshmen and sophomore teams especially will strive for the victory in their various contests. The Philomathean Literaty society held its first open meeting Friday night. It was made a welcoming to new members and visitors. A program was given. The program was made as a special study of Turkey, especially the movements which are making for the "New Turkey." These were the selections: "A Mohammedan Renalssance," Homar J. Adcock; "A Silent Revolution in Turkey," Miss Abble Robertson; "The Regenerated Ottoman Empire," Robert Warner; "Turkey and the Constitution." Glen Rice; "Turkish Women Rejoice," Miss Alberta O'Kane; "Can the Sultan Draw Back?" Donald Enfield.

Mr. Hamblin and Mr. Johnson also greatly pleased the audience with their music, both vocal and instrumental. The Adelphian Literary society is also organized and in working order. The constitutional membership has also reached very near the limit. No working plans for the venr have been drawn up and accented as satisfactory. Officers were elected as follows: President, Mes Lu Gissinger; vice president, Henry Brandt; secretary, Miss Sodia Gillan. Their regular meeting Friday oficht was given to the consideration of folk The program proved most interesting The members geneared as follows: "The Pomance of Folkjare" Miss Frances Sweetland; "Chinese Folklare and Some Western Onologies," Leglie Sweetland "Nature and Value of Polklore," L. D. Ohman: "Christman Superstitions" Mis-La Rissinger: "Superstitions of Today" Mine Clothie Fowler: "Joel Chandler Harris." Henry Brandt.
